

July Tonnage Takes a Dip

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

August 14, 2015

(Green Bay, WI) – July tonnage for the Port of Green Bay was just under 940,000 metric tons, a 14 percent dip from July 2014.

“We had a decrease in salt (36 percent) and limestone (42 percent) last month,” said Dean Haen, Port and Resource Recovery director. “We are hoping the drop is just a timing issue and that things pick back up again for the remainder of the season.”

Haen says the drop in tonnage was somewhat anticipated. “We knew there would be a leveling out of cargo, so the slight decrease was expected,” Haen says. “While a drop in tonnage is never a good thing, continued steady increases of other cargo like cement and coal are optimistic signs that we will end the season on a strong note.”
