

FULL STEAM AHEAD FOR PORT OF GREEN BAY

September numbers show increase in tonnage

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

October 8, 2014

(Green Bay) – Port of Green Bay activity remains strong and it shows in the numbers. According to the monthly tonnage report, the Port brought in just over 250,000 metric tons of cargo in September, putting year to date numbers 12 percent above 2013.

"It's promising to see the increase in cargo shipments through the Port given the fact we lost six weeks at the start of the season due to ice cover," said Dean Haen, director of Brown County Port and Resource Recovery. "If this pace continues through the remaining months of the season, I'm confident we will surpass last year's record of 2.1 million tons of cargo."

Twenty ships came through the Port of Green Bay in September. "We're seeing substantial volumes of limestone and petroleum coke coming into the Port and petroleum products like ethanol, diesel and gasoline heading out for foreign export," Haen said. "It's a reflection of our robust economy."

The Port of Green Bay has 15 active terminal operators involved in shipping commodities:
